

LEARN IT

We play many games together, some of those games we have to take turns. How does it make you feel to wait? How does it make you feel when others are not patient and do not wait their turn? Why should we wait our turn and be fair to others? What are some other times we have to be patient?

PLAY IT Stack the Clown

Using three separate boxes and paper, create a clown. Use a template or draw legs and feet on one box, the body on another box, and the head on the last. Create a designated starting spot. Each child will run down and try to put the clown back in order. Once they have it, they need to knock it down, run back to the starting spot, and tag the next person.

EAT IT Juggler Bites

Take whole grain pretzel sticks, thinly sliced ham, and mozzarella or cheddar cheese slices to create this bite size snack. Place a slice of cheese and a slice of ham together then roll up. Stick the pretzel through the roll to hold it together.

MAKE IT Patience Pillars

The caterpillar has to be very patient as it prepares to make its cocoon and then become a butterfly. Make these cute pom pom caterpillars for a spring patience lesson. Using a template on green construction paper, make the shape of a leaf. Children will cut out the leaf. With a large pom pom they will glue on the head and then make the caterpillar body with smaller pom pom balls. Glue googly eyes on the head to complete your caterpillar.

READ IT

Eat Your Colors by Terry Harris

Juniper Jupiter: World's Greatest Juggler
by Cherry Smith

Jo and the Slow Soup by Elias Carr

COUNT how many balls each seal is juggling, then write the number inside the box.

